Use of Non-GAAP Financial Measures

To provide investors with additional information regarding our financial results, this chat deck includes references to adjusted EBITDA, adjusted net (loss) income, and adjusted operating cash flow, which are non-U.S. GAAP financial measures that may be different from similarly titled measures used by other companies. These measures are presented to enhance investors' overall understanding of the Company's financial performance and should not be considered a substitute for, or superior to, the financial information prepared and presented in accordance with U.S. GAAP.

The Company's non-GAAP financial measures provide useful information about financial performance, enhance the overall understanding of past performance and future prospects, and allow for greater transparency with respect to key metrics used by management for financial and operational decision-making. These measures may also provide an additional tool for investors to use in comparing core financial performance over multiple periods with other companies in the industry.

- Adjusted EBITDA helps identify underlying trends in the business that otherwise could be masked by the effect of the expenses that are excluded in adjusted EBITDA. In particular, the Company believes the exclusion of stock and stock option expenses provides a useful supplemental measure in evaluating the performance of operations and provides better transparency into results of operations. The Company defines adjusted EBITDA to mean net income (loss) from continuing operations, excluding other income (expense), income tax benefit (expense), depreciation, amortization, impairment charges, litigation contingency expenses, stock-based compensation expense, and stock option expense.
- Adjusted net (loss) income excludes significant non-operating related expenses that management does not consider on-going in nature. The Company defines adjusted net (loss) income to mean net (loss) income adjusted for net loss from discontinued operations and the after tax impact of the litigation contingency accrual.
- Adjusted operating cash flow helps investors see the Company's performance through the eyes of management. The Company defines adjusted operating cash flow to mean cash flows from operations excluding the change in customer deposits.

Adjusted EBITDA, adjusted net (loss) income, and adjusted operating cash flow should not be considered in isolation from, or as a substitute for, financial information prepared in accordance with U.S. GAAP.
